CURIOSITY IS CURBED BY JUDGE FITZGERALD

Issues Order Barring Spectators From Courtroom.

ORDER IS MADE IMPERATIVE

There Has Probably Never Been a Trial in This Country, Which for Sustained Interest Has Equalled the Thaw Case—Jury Man Chosen..

New York, Jan. 29.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw, for the killing of Stanford White, was begun Monday morning before Justice Fitzgerald in the criminal branch of the supreme court. During this week a jury will be obtained and considerable testimony may possibly be all the prosecution will offer, will be heard, it is hoped. It will probably be at least two days before the fire jurors still needed, will be obtained. Wednesday or Thursday, at the latest, the district attorney should be able to make his opening address to the jury and begin his direct examination of witnesses.

There has probably never been a murder trial in this country, which for sustained interest has equalled the Thaw trial. While the obtaining of a jury is a dry, monotonous work, crowds begged or admission all last week. Now that testimony which it is generally expected will be exceedingly interesting is soon to be heard, the morbid and curious will appear in greater numbers. Justice Fitzgerald has decided on stern measures, however, to curb the tendency of the mere sight-seers. He has issued orders that at no time during the trial shall spectators be admitted. Justice Fitzgerald has decided that the spectators, particulary women who appear at the trial with perculiarly sensational features, shall be barred. This order has been made imperative and the public and court officers have been told to obey it to the letter.

The interest in which the trial is held is shown particularly by the arrival of visitors at New York hotels. Residents of Pittsburg naturally are in the majority.

The apparent desire of the defense to hasten the trial or at least to complete the jury is thought to be a sign that some move not yet hinted at, will be made. The defense has never outlined or even intimated what the line of defense is to be. Its counsel have said that no inkling would be given before the address to the jury was made.

Delphin M. Delmas, when asked to outline the defense said:

"It would hardly be professional to disclose our case. You may say, however, that it will come strictly within the statutes of New York. There is no higher law in this state, and all this talk about the 'unwritten law' is bosh. Nor can I see the efficacy of a plea of emotional insanity. There is really no such thing. A man may be temporarily insane, but that is quite another matter."

Mr. Delmas expects that another week will be required to fill the jury box.

When the trial was taken up Monday there remained five jurors to be chosen from among the less than 100 talesmen, who remain to be examined. It is now generally conceded that the taking of testimnoy will not long be possible before Wednesday.

Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw came into the court room early, arriving nearly half an hour before the morning session was scheduled to begin. She was accompanied by Miss May McKenzie, who remains her constant companied. Miss McKenzie declared there was absolutely no truth in the report that there had been differences in the Thaw family, and said it was especially untrue that any dissension had arisen over her presence in the court room.

Charles D. Newton, a retired business man, about 65 years old, has been selected as juror No. 8, in the Thaw trial.

Whip Is Plied: Crowd Present.

Meridian, Miss., Jan. 29.—H. T. Jenkins, a traveling man, was horsewhipped in a sensational manner in the lobby of a hotel here by Judge Robert F. Cochran, of the tenth judicial district, in the presence of a large crowd, including several ladies. It is alleged that while the judge plied a buggy whip upon Jenkins, C. R. L. Murray, a friend, covered the drummer with a big pistol. Judge Cochran and Murray were arrested later on a charge of assault and battery. The trouble is said to date back several years, and was connected in some way with a large fine imposed upon Jenkins by Judge Cochran.

The names of the missing men are Elliott, Norton and Helneke. The building was known as the Columbia hotel during the Pan-American exposition.

BRANDS BABE WITH HOT IRON.

Tots Tell Shocking Story in a New York Court.

New York, Jan. 29.—Two little tots Nellie, aged 7 years, and Jennie, 2 years younger, told Magistrate House, in the Harlem police court how their stepmother, Mrs. Kate Cravins, had branded them with a red-hot stove lifter when in play they had made too much noise.

Twice during the recital the prisoner, a woman of intelligent and pleasing appearance, not more than 29 years of age, fainted. When restored the woman admitted that she had burned the children, but said that at the same time she was possessed by an unaccountable mania. The two girls, she said, had been playing with their dolls until the noise and confusion robbed her of her reason, and left a resistless impulse to punish the little ones. Seizing the stove lid lifter and pressed the glowing end upon the back of the right hand of each child, causing scars that the little ones will carry to their graves.

A peculiar feature of the case was the apparent affection for the children felt by the prisoner, and that the attachment was returned was repeatedly demonstrated in court. When the prisoner lost consciousness the children wailed in unison.

The prisoner was paroled in custody of her counsel pending a further hearing and the children given in care of the children's society, which brought the complaint.

At a meeting held in Zion Temple Sunday night, the rumors of a removal to a new site were confirmed by Voliva. Within a few weeks Voliva will go on a trip of inspection, investigating all the churches which recognize him as leader. On this journey Voliva will view several sites for the new colony now under consideration. Certain sections of the gulf coast of Texas will also be visited

But few additional facts were brought out at the inquest and the motive for the crime remains a mystery, unless as the police claim, it was a failure of the attempt to blackmail the merchant. The sons and the old employes of the murdered man testified that they had never seen or heard of Raynor before the day of the tragedy.

GOV. SWETTENHAM TENDERS RESIGNATION

Man Who Refused American Aid Quits Jamaica.

UNABLE TO HANDLE SITUATION

Lord Archbishop Nuttall Discusses Problems Created by Earthquake and Says that an Imperial Grant Is Necessary.

Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 29.—It is understood that Governor Swettenham tendered his resignation to Lord Elgin, secretary for the colonies, a few days ago, in consequence of the Admiral Davis incident, and his inability to solve the problem created by the earthquake.

On Saturday the governor visited the temporary offices of the municipal council and informed the vice chairman, who is acting in the absence of Mayor Taft, who is injured, that the government had decided to relieve the people of Kingston from all rates and taxes for a period of 15 months, beginning January 1. This announcement has been received with gratification by the residents of the city, who will be encouraged to start the work of rebuilding as early as possible.

The Most Rev. Enos Nuttall, archbishop of the West Indies, in an interview, said that the municipal council was unable to deal with the present extraordinary emergency, and should be abolished, and one commissioner with full powers should be appointed to govern the city during the period of reconstruction. He also declared that, in addition to the generous contributions from the United States, Canada, and elsewhere, it was absolutely necessary to obtain an imperial grant, and an imperial loan to rebuild Kingston, more particularly in view of the attitude of the English fire insurance companies, which have disclaimed all liability for losses sustained during the earthquake and fire.

Santiago de Cuba, Jan. 29.—The tentage of the Eleventh infantry, which was ordered to Kingston, Jamaica, and after reaching there was returned to the Morro barracks, was again sent to Kingston Sunday on board the steamer Oteri, in care of Captain Battle.

The property was practically surrounded by Biltmore estate by which it now becomes a part. Collins has moved to Pittsburg.

NOBLE A. HULL DEAD.

One of Florida's Most Prominent Citizens.

From The Jacksonville Times-Union:

Hon. Noble A. Hull died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. P. D. Cassidey, 1 West Church street, Monday night, after a long illness.

Noble A. Hull, who was one of Florida's distinguished citizens, was born in the county of Camden, Ga., March 1, 1827, and came of old and well connected ancestry. His father, Hon. Joseph Hull, was a native of St. Augustine, born in 1795, while Florida was a Spanish possession. At 18 years of age he removed to Camden county, Ga., and there spent the remainder of his life, pursuing the vocation of a farmer, and was prominent in State affairs, serving as a member of the Georgia Legislature for several terms from Camden county, and died in 1865.

The mother of Noble A. Hull was Sarah M., daughter of Major John Hardee of the Revolutionary War, and sister of the famous Major-Gen. William A. Hardee of South Carolina. She was born in Camden county, Ga., in 1800 and died in that county at the age of 61.

Mr. Hull was raised on a plantation in Camden county and finished his education in the Chatham academy of Savannah, leaving that institution to enter the cotton commission house of his uncle, Nobel A. Hardee, at Savannah, in the capacity of a clerk when 18 years of age. In 1851 Mr. Hull removed to Florida and began the mercantile business in Columbia (now Suwannee) county.

In the latter part of 1860 he was elected a member of the State Legislature from Columbia county. He was present at the convention that passed the ordinance of secession that withdrew Florida from the Union.

Mr. Hull raised two companies for service in the Confederate States Army, one being Company H, First Florida Cavalry, which he commanded in the field with honor and credit. After the cessation of hostilities he located in Jacksonville and had been a resident of this city since, with the exception of three years spent at Sanford.

While in Orange county he was elevated Lieutenant-Governor of the State on the ticket with George F. Drew as Governor. He resigned this office when the term had but half expired to accept the office of Congressman from the Second Florida district, to which he was elected in the latter part of 1878. Taking his seat in that body on March 4, 1879, he served the full term of two years with distinction to himself and profit to his constituency.

Gov. Francis P. Fleming appointed him as clerk of the circuit court at Jacksonville in 1889, and he was elected to the same office in 1891 and 1895 by popular vote. Declining a third election he retired from this office after an uninterrupted term of eight years.

Mr. Hull served as the first sheriff of Suwannee county when that county was formed from Columbia, and made a splendid officer.

Strongly subscribing to the Presbyterian creed, Mr. Hull was a member and senior elder of the First Presbyterian Church of Jacksonville.

On January 24, 1860, occurred his marriage with Eleanor C. Sturtevant, a native of Rhode Island, but a resident of Georgia. Their happy married life of over forty years was terminated by her death, January 27, 1902.

Their only daughter, Carrie E., is the wife of P. D. Cassidey, clerk of the circuit court of Duval county. Mr. Hull's life had been long and useful and he had discharged duties of all public and private trusts with a fidelity that is worthy of remembrance.

IN THE MAYOR'S COURT.

Several Offenders Before City Magistrate, When Fines Were Imposed.

There were several cases before the mayor's court Tuesday morning, and the result was that the coffers of the city treasury were greatly increased.

Donald Young, a well known negro character of this city, was out for a good time, and became very disorderly on the streets, which led the officers to believe that he bent his elbow a few times too often. He was arrested, and when arraigned before the mayor admitted that he was out for a good time, but did not mean any harm. The result was that, after making this confession, he was fined the usual $5 and costs.

Otis Thompson, Thornton Shettleworth and Rush Ashler, all colored, were arraigned for disorderly conduct and fined $2 50 each and costs.

The most interesting case was that of A. L. Hatch, a white man who hails from Palatka. Mr. Hatch, who claims that his original home is New Jersey, was arrested for being drunk at the Atlantic Coast Line depot. He was placed in prison, but released after the session of the mayor's court, because of the fact that he told the mayor a straight story of how he came from Palatka to meet a friend, with whom he was to take a fishing trip, how he was "drugged" by supposed friends he met here, and who induced him to drink of that which was not good for him, with the result that he was soon "non compus mentus," and was picked up by the officer. The mayor heard his story and let the man down without a fine.

"Sir: Your letter of January 12 to the Hon. Secretary of Agriculture, making inquiries in regard to the distribution of the Sea Island cotton, has been referred to this bureau for attention.

"We shall not have any seed of the Sea Island cotton for distribution this year. This is due to an organization of Sea Island planters of South Carolina which for the past two years has prevented the shipment of improved seed from the South Carolina Sea Islands. We have continued our breeding work in Georgia and hope to undertake an extension of it in Florida this year on a scale that will permit of the distribution of improved seed in the spring of 1908."

THREE EPOCHS IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

MRS. ELVA BARBER EDWARDS — MRS. GEORGE WALTERS

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark in her career. The first of these stages is womanhood, or the change from a care free girl to budding womanhood. The second is motherhood, and the third is Change of Life.

Perils surround each of these stages, and most of the misery that comes to women through ill health dates from one or another of these important crises.

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs has carried thousands of young girls over the critical period of puberty, has prepared mothers for childbirth, and in later years carried them safely through the change of life more successfully than any other remedy in the world. Thousands of testimonials from grateful persons, two of which are here published, substantiate this fact beyond contradiction.

Mrs George Walters of Woodlawn, Ill. writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I feel it my duty to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me in preparing for childbirth. After suffering and losing my children a friend advised me to try your valuable medicine, and the result was that I had very little inconvenience, a quick recovery and as healthy a child as can be found anywhere. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a blessing to all expectant mothers."

Mrs. Elva Barber Edwards of Cathlamet, Wash., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I want to tell you how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carried me through the critical period of the Change of Life without any trouble whatever, also cured me of a very severe female weakness. I cannot say enough in praise of what your medicine has done for me."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Edwards it will do for other women in their condition. Every suffering woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and helpful.

SLEDD WILL NOT CLOSE UNIVERSITY

Loves Religion and Wants Students to Hear All They Can.

CAN'T STOP THE SCHOOL

Is Willing to Give Excuses to All Students Who Want to Attend Preaching, But Will Not Consent to Stop Education to Accommodate Cause.

Burke Culpepper, son of the evangelist, Rev. J. B Culpepper, and also quite a preacher himself, addressed the students of the University of Florida in the University chapel Tuesday, during which talk he made a most fervent appeal to the young men of the University to come to church. While the meeting was well attended, and those who heard the young man appreciated his remarks, it was not voted to close the University for the purpose of attending divine services at the Methodist church, which are now being held.

"I am certainly not in favor of closing the University in order to attend divine services of the Culpeppers or anybody else," remarked Dr. Andrew Sledd to a Sun reporter Tuesday. "We have our studies, and we must take care of them. I appreciate the desire of our young men who do want to go to meeting, and the president will give an individual permit to all students who desire to attend, but we do not propose to close this institution in order to accommodate any proposition, religious or otherwise."

Dr. Sledd, who is also a minister, stated that he was glad to see the meeting here, and would do all in his power to aid the cause, but he did not propose to close the University in its entirety, because in the first place those of the students who desire may attend service. "There is no use closing an institution for this occasion," he said, "because there is no law to make those who do not want to go attend, and those who do want to be present will have no trouble in getting excused."

ORANGE HEIGHTS ITEMS.

Founder of the Town Returns After Absence of Several Years.

Orange Heights, Jan. 28.—News will accumulate, and important notes pass by and your correspondent gets too busy to catch them.

Mrs. Dr. Curtis entertained several Northern people Friday at dinner who are spending the winter at the Huffman House at Melrose. How thankful we should be that God gave us Florida, beautiful, lovely and grand, where people who are afflicted come seeking health, thus hiding away from the bleak winds and snow storms, and breathing the pure, sweet and balmy air.

Business has been quite dull this month, but soon the farmers and truckers will be sowing, which will liven up times a little.

A great deal of freight is coming in now ready for spring, and much of it is being transferred by teams across to Melrose on account of the disabled condition of the Steamer Alert.

J. H. Patterson went to Gainesville this morning. He will engage in the real estate business with Mr. Steenburg, Mr. Kinnebrew retiring.

Orange Heights is entertaining a very honored guest at present, Mr. Charles Palmer of Kansas City, who was the original founder of the town. Mr. Palmer came to Florida an invalid in 1883 from Yellow Springs, Ohio, suffering from that dreaded disease, tuberculosis. Being advised of his critical condition he left his home in search of a better climate. After traveling over several States and visiting many health resorts, his attention was attracted to this little elevation, now called Orange Heights, being then mostly pine woods. The Seaboard Air Line railway had already been built and was in operation. The place was then known as the Cyrus Hall Plantation. Mr. Palmer, having a very energetic nature and strong will power, regardless of poor health, immediately bought two hundred and forty acres of this plantation and proceeded to build a town and fill it up with people of his own kind. Success crowned his efforts, and quite soon the population amounted to hundreds. Orange trees and roses adorned the homes, and beautiful little live oaks shaded the streets. About the fall of 1890 Mr. Palmer, having again regained his health, decided to return to the North, and went to Columbus, Ohio, where his wife died. After a number of years he again entered the field of matrimony, taking unto himself Mrs. Eva Wright of Kansas City, who accompanied him to Florida, where he found his health. He is now the picture of good health, and he with his bride are comfortably situated for the winter in the little cottage known as the Truman house, now owned by Miss Laurel Paulsen. He regrets very much the dilapidated condition of his town, and says he is almost tempted to try it again. Dr. and Mrs. Curtis are the only ones of his people here. After the freeze he abandoned orange culture and adopted the pecan, which has been a success.

SHOOTING FRACAS AT VINEVILLE

One Young White Man Shoots Another at Night.

Macon, Ga., Jan. 29.—A row occurring between Frank Hardeman and W. L. English, Jr., on the one side and George Riley, Jr., on the other, resulted in a shooting affray in Vineville that has been the subject of much comment.

George Riley fired on English with a revolver, hitting him in the right leg just above the knee, after the three had left town and renewed the difficulty near the Riley home on Ward street. Other shots were fired by Riley, but only one took effect, Hardeman having taken flight in the darkness when the shooting began.

A difficulty arose on last Christmas night between Riley and Hardeman. There was aparently an inclined of young English to take the part of There was apparently an inclination of young English to take the part of Hardeman, and during the night at a drug store, Hardeman and English accosted Riley. The latter young man, according to witness, offered to shake hands and make up, but such a turn was taken in the latter incidents as to cause Riley to knock English down. He went further down the street, and was followed. In the dark, Riley further stated, he ran toward home, but was so closely followed that he lost his hat. After going into the house and securing a revolver, he came out and when faced again, he asserts that he fired to prevent the two men from advancing further on him with their open knives.

At the hospital English has improved from his wound and it is thought it will not prove serious. All parties are prominent. Riley has sentiment in his favor. No warrants have been sworn out, and it is probable that the matter will be dropped.

Mystery Surrounds Woman's Death.

Pittsburg, Jan. 29.—Albert Houck found the body of his wife lying on a table of her room, burned to a crisp, when he returned home from work late Sunday night. The police department and coroner are making a rigid investigation of the death but so far have failed to reach a definite conclusion. Their first theory of accidental death was abandoned when it was discovered that nothing else in the room was burned, not even the table on which the woman was discovered. When the woman's husband returned home the doors were all locked, all the lights in the house were out and he was compelled to climb through a cellar window. Whether the woman met with foul play the police are reluctant to say, but considerable mystery surrounds the death.

should your baby suffer? When he is fretful and restless don't experiment on him and use any old thing your neighbor recommends. 100 Chinamen Drowned.

Hong Kong, Jan. 29.—A terrific rain squall broke over Hong Kong Monday morning, and in the space of 10 minutes sank over 50 Chinese craft in the harbor, more than a hundred natives being drowned. There were no casualties among the white population. Launches from the shore rescued many occupants of the capsized boats. The harbor was also littered with the wreckage from the sunken junks. During the squall the river steamer Paul Bean broke adrift, but she was brought to an anchorage without sustaining any serious damage.

OLD SOLDIERS WEEP FOR ALGER

30,000 People View Senator's Remains at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 29.—Nearly thirty thousand people paid tribute Sunday afternoon to the memory of Senator R. A. Alger, as his body lay in state in the city. For three hours and a half a continuous line of people passed through the corridor for a last look at the dead.

Pathetic and moving incidents abounded as the throng passed before the open casket. Old soldiers who had served in the civil war, with him saluted as they slowly marched by the body of their old commander with tear-dimmed eyes.

When the last person had passed by the casket, the senator's body was carried out to the hearse, and taken to the family home on Fort street.

The special train on which the funeral party came from Washington arrived here at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Accompanying Mrs. Alger were Senators Burrows, Scott and Warren and all the members of the Michigan congressional delegation except Congressmen Darragh, Young and Hamilton. After Mrs. Alger and her family had left the train and gone to their home, eight members of the Spanish war Veterans' association, who served under the orders of Senator Alger, when he was secretary of war, marched out on the platform and took the casket from the funeral car.

Mrs. Alger, it was stated by members of the funeral party, stood the shock of the senator's sudden death.

The funeral ceremonies were held from the Senator's home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

According to the last State census Alachua county has a population of 34,057, of which 13,588 are whites and 20,469 blacks. There are 2,045 farms, 1,169 being conducted by white people and 876 by negroes. The total acreage in farms July 1, 1905, was 215,104, valued at $1,848,70.

A French physician who has been sitting up nights doping out a new gospel of medicine for the mind, says that when so depressed you feel you have reason to commit suicide, you may really only need a bath. The lesson is, presumably, always to postpone your fits of depression until Saturday.

The French government proposes to advance the tariff rates on cottonseed oil from $1.16 to $4.82, under the general tariff, and $2.70 under the minimum tariff. This retaliation against our high tariff by foreign countries means that products of the United States will pay the maximum rates. And yet our Republican Congress persists in standing-pat.

THE LUMBER TRUST

The Senate has ordered an inquiry into the operations of the lumber trust, which Senator Kittredge of South Dakota declares is the "king of all trusts in restraint of trade—remorseless in its grasp on the people, and the only change which it contemplates is to increase the price of its products at stated and frequent intervals, without regard to cost." He also said that "within the last five years the price of lumber and timber products have arbitrarily advanced from 100 to 500 per cent."

Senator Kittredge proposed to protect the people from this monopoly by having the federal government investigate the trust, and suggested that there is a simple way to help break the power of this rapacious trust, if Republican members of Congress were willing to do it, by cutting off the tariff protection. The tariff tax on lumber ranges from 10 to 64 per cent of its value, and if lumber products were placed on the free list there would be considerable competition from Canada and other countries that have surplus lumber to sell. The ensuing competition under free lumber, joined with the criminal prosecution of the lumber barons, for no fine would probably have any effect on them, would break up the combination or trust and bring down the price of lumber to what it is worth.

It must be remembered, however, that the price of lumber will never again be anything like as low as in former years, for the stock of standing timber in the United States has been so depleted that what remains will naturally be sold for a much higher price than formerly.

It is singular that every Congressional district but one adjacent to the Canadian line, where the voters would especially benefit by competing lumber, is represented by a Republican, who all refuse to revise the tariff, or even allow the subject to be considered. And in the next Congress the same political alignment prevails with two exceptions. How can the settlers of South Dakota and other prairie States expect to be relieved from the exactions of the lumber trust if they continue to elect Republicans to represent them who are pledged to continue the Republican tariff policy that protects the trusts?

It will take two years, if not more, for the Department of Commerce and Labor to investigate and report on the lumber trust, and then, if the Department of Justice thinks it can make a case against the lumber barons, there will be a long drawn out legal fight, and during all that time the people will still be suffering from the prohibitive prices the lumber trust is charging. In a week Congress could pass a bill placing lumber on the free list, and thus give, at least, partial relief. Every thousand feet of lumber imported from Canada, or elsewhere, would relieve the lumber market of part of the strain the lumber trust now imposes on it. The trust, rather than seeing its competitors underselling it, would naturally reduce its prices to meet the competition.

But Senator Kittredge, like some other Republican Congressmen that want certain products relieved from the tariff tax, are unwilling to help the Democrats force a general revision of the tariff, which would give relief from the present tariff high prices. They believe in the Republican policy of protecting the trusts, but cry out about some particular trust, so as to appear to their constituents to favor tariff revision.

But the tariff cannot be revised in that way, for the trusts hang together for protection, and the only way to rout them is to unhorse all the trust barons that are unduly protected at the same time, and that will not be possible until the voters defeat more of the stand-patters that represent trust interests, rather than the interest of their constituents. As it is now one trust has more power with Republican Congressmen than 200,000 people have.

President Hadley of Yale University, who believed in "letting well enough alone" as far as the trusts and corporations were concerned, and then suggested "social ostracism" as the penalty for bad corporation magnates, has now arrived at the conclusion that one of two things will happen, "vastly increased legal regulation, or State ownership of monopolies." Thus are the eyes of the blind gradually opened to the evils of unprincipled trust and corporation exactions.

The House Committee on Agriculture has decided to recommend the discontinuance of seed distribution by Congress, and provide that the Department of Agriculture send out rare seed only. This Republican plan will knock the Democratic farmer out of the ring and confine the distribution to the Republican farmers who have influence with the Administration. A great reform, truly.

"Senator Piles of Oregon," says The Houston Post, "is to receive a fee of $450,000 in a will contest." Barring the fact that Senator Piles is not from Oregon, and that he doesn't know anything about that $450,000 fee, the statement is undoubtedly correct. It takes an awful lot of our time to keep our contemporaries right.

A CAT'S EYES.

The Chinese Discovered Their Use as a Time Indicator.

The first European to learn of the use of a cat as a time indicator was M. Huc, who in a work on the Chinese empire tells how he was initiated into the mystery.

M. Huc and a party of friends set out to visit a Chinese Christian mission settlement among the peasantry. They met a young Chinaman on the road, and to test his intelligence they asked him if he could tell them the time. The native looked up at the sky, but the clouds hid the sun from view, and he couldn't read any answer there. Suddenly he darted away to a farm and returned in a few moments with a cat in his arms. Pushing up its eyelids with his hand, he told Huc to look at them, at the same time volunteering the information that it was not noon yet. While they were puzzling over the case the boy went about his business.

When the party reached the village, they asked the Christian converts if they could tell the time by a cat's eyes and how it was done. Immediately there was a wild hunt, and all the cats obtainable in the neighborhood were brought before them.

The Chinese pointed out that the pupils of a cat's eyes were gradually narrower up to 12 noon, when they became scarcely perceptible lines drawn perpendicularly across the eye, and after that dilation recommenced. Huc examined the eyes of several cats and verified what the Chinese had told him.—Chicago Chronicle.

AN ODD WAGER.

The Peculiar Bet a Foreign Prince Laid and Won in Paris.

Gambling has always been a favorite occupation for the sons of royal houses, but none of them probably has ever exhibited so much wit and ingenuity in his betting as a foreign prince did at his stay in Paris.

He laid a heavy wager with a member of the Imperial club of the French capital that within two hours he would be arrested by the police without committing any offense or provoking the officers of the law in any fashion. Accordingly, having clothed himself in rags of the most disreputable appearance, he walked into one of the most aristocratic restaurants in the city and ordered a cup of chocolate. The waiter refused to serve him unless he showed evidence that he could pay. The prince at once drew a roll of bank notes from his pocket and offered one of large denomination to the astonished attendant. The latter took the bill and carried it at once to the proprietor, who sent for the police, in the meantime allowing his strange guest to be served.

As soon as the authorities arrived they arrested the incognito son of royalty and took him to the nearest station, where of course he was released after he had disclosed the facts of the affair.—New York Tribune.

Color Blindness.

The term color blindness implies an entire absence of the color sense, and there are a few persons who are in this condition, but it also includes all the forms of partial color blindness in which the perception of one of the fundamental colors—red, green and violet—is wanting, and which are known as red blindness, green blindness and violet blindness. The line between these various kinds of color blindness and a perfect perception of colors is not sharply drawn, so that a large number of persons have what is called a feeble color sense, which falls short of actual color blindness. There is no doubt that color blindness in its various forms is much more common than is generally supposed, and it is more common among the imperfectly than the well educated classes.

Schoolboy's Essay on Henry VIII.

Henry VIII. was a frequent widower, conceited, cunning, cruel and corpulent. He burned the pope's bull in effigy, beheaded his best friends, made himself defender of the faith by a Latin law and had an inordinate ambition and an ulcer in his leg. Henry sternly denied the validity of the proud pope of Roam and at last, worn out by an internal discord, died more in sorrow than in anger.—Harper's Weekly.

Same Trouble Everywhere.

We have a brother in our church who belonged to several other denominations before he came to us, and he tells us they have the same trouble everywhere—impossible to get a $2,000 preacher for $750 a year.—Osborne (Kan.) Farmer.

Hereditary.

"Your son is a great football player."

"Yes; it is hereditary."

"I never heard that his father was a football player."

"He isn't, but he is a chronic kicker."—Houston Post.

Paying honest debts promptly and cheerfully is a virtue of manhood appreciated by every one.—Newark (Ark.)

DORMOUSE DELICACIES.

Titbits That Were Relished In Ancient Roman Times.

Brawn was originally a Roman dish and was eaten with garum, and cow's and calf's foot jellies were likewise dainties with Rome's upper ten in the time of the Cæsars. One would hardly suppose that black puddings were so old as the reign of Tiberius, but this is the fact. They were made of pig's blood, with little cubes of fat interspersed in the compound, and were the invention of a gentleman who rejoiced in the name of Barbonselvergius. It was he who invented all kinds of sausages—that is, meat stuffed into skins, which, we take it, is the ground plan, so to speak, of a sausage.

This gentleman also wrote a learned treatise on the fattening of dormice for the table, for at one period dormice were a craze. There were dormouse soup, dormouse sausage, dormouse brawn, dormouse cooked in every conceivable way, and the demand for this delicacy in prize sizes was so great that there was room for a book on the subject, though unfortunately this book is lost to posterity, and the only knowledge which we have of the fattening of dormice in Rome is from Petronius Arbiter, who tells us that they became fat by sleeping.

He also tells us that the best sauce to eat with dormouse is a mixture of poppy seed and honey, a mixture which probably had the merit of inducing sleep after a meal.

The Wrong Feathers.

There is little except the method of inflation that distinguishes the balloon of the twentieth century from the machine used by M. Pilatre de Rozier, the first man to trust himself in a balloon, in October, 1783. One of his great triumphs was to hover over Paris at the height of 300 feet for a space of nine minutes. M. Pilatre achieved all his efforts by means of hot air produced by a fire which he carried in the balloon itself and was almost as daring as an Italian philosopher who took flight on a pair of wings of his own construction from the summit of the castle of Stirling in presence of King James IV. of Scotland. That courageous experimenter when picked up from the ground with a broken leg accounted for the collapse of his wings by exclaiming to the sympathetic courtiers that he had made a mistake in taking some of his feathers from the creatures of the barnyard whose inclination was toward the earth. Had he selected them from creatures with a heavenward tendency, like the eagle, the experiment would have been successful. He was believed and suitably rewarded.

A Street Sweeper's Gratuities.

A city merchant used to give an old crossing sweeper sixpence every Saturday. One day he discovered he had given half a sovereign by a mistake. So he hurried back to the crossing. The sweeper said in reply to a question, "Will you come, sir, after 4 o'clock to this address, and I will see if you are right about the coin?" The merchant did so and found a small office and two clerks busy at work. Presently the sweeper appeared, but, oh, so altered! He was dressed neatly and looked like a business man. "Oh, yes," he said to the astonished merchant, "you were correct. Our receipts today were about 10 shillings more than usual, so here is your half sovereign." As the merchant left the "office," vowing he would never give to the rogue again, the sweeper called after him, "You've forgotten your usual sixpence, sir!"—Dundee Advertiser.

A Little Sarcastic.

An old woman went into a grocer's and ordered a pennyworth of carrots. After being served she inquired, "D'ye not thraw something in wi' them?" "Oh, yis," replied the greengrocer; "if ye wait a minute I'll thraw in a seck o' tatties an' a barrel o' apples an' a hundredweight o' turnips an' a box o' oranges! An'," he shouted as the old woman flounced out of the shop, "when I'm busy I'll thraw in the horse an' cairt! If yor not satisfied then, come back for the shop!"—London Mail.

Adam's Foresightedness.

Though Adam blamed Eve for tempting him to eat apples, it isn't on record that he gave her due credit for making those first clothes.—Florida Times-Union.

UNPROFITABLE FEEDING

Intelligent stock raisers know that a certain amount of feed is necessary to keep an animal alive. They might feed that amount as long as it lives, and it would never gain a pound.

There is no profit in that kind of feeding. The kind that pays is the kind that builds flesh rapidly. If it takes twenty pounds of food each day to keep a sheep alive, twenty-five pounds a day will make it gain flesh. It's the extra five that brings the profit. The first five pounds amounts to nothing, nor does the second or third or fourth five pounds.

It's the same way with advertising. You have to do a certain amount to overcome the resistance of the public.

You have to do a certain amount of advertising to make them wake up to the fact that you are in business at all. You have to pay a certain amount to keep your advertising alive. What you pay above that amount brings profit.

Some advertisers fail because they do not use enough space. They use barely enough or sometimes not quite enough to make the advertising self sustaining. A little bit more would make it profitable. It is better to advertise a little too much than not quite enough.—Charles Austin Bates.

Some of our advertisers could enlarge their space with profit.

THE QUESTION OF LIFE.

Man's Progress and the Books of the Eighteenth Century.

In what mankind called "progress" the world was led by illusion, advanced by lies. Everybody hated work, which was the only health. Even the preacher spoke dolefully of "the curse of Adam." Everybody wanted to be rich, which meant unhappiness; everybody wanted to be idle, which meant death. Change was regarded as progress, and to find one different from oneself was to find one worse than oneself. And with all these I sympathized, knowing them to be wrong.

I had listened to moralists and before all was done discerned that a question of morals was a question of latitudes, and vice related to the equator. Cruelty was a creature of the thermometer; the tropics tortured what the arctics nursed. Happiness was born of contrast when it wasn't born of temperament, and Third avenue laughed oftener than Fifth. One man committed suicide, another gave a feast. Each was worth $20,000. The suicide had been a millionaire, the feast giver a pauper. I considered merchants and gamblers. There was but one difference—when the merchant's resources ended his credit ended; when the gambler's resources ended his credit began. When the gambler was down his fellow gamblers helped him; when the merchant was down his fellow merchants fell upon him and tore him like wolves.

Progress? A wise man proved it by pointing to a railroad and asking me to remember stagecoaches. I asked why it was better to travel 900 miles in a day than to travel ninety. He said one could reach Chicago in a day and night. I replied that one couldn't reach Calcutta in a day and night. He said that medicine and surgery had advanced; that we now saved lives we used to lose. I asked why it was important to save lives that must one day die. Also I pointed out that we saved [illegible]ngs to wed weaklings and propagate weaklings, which was progressing hard. He grew angry and asked if I favored death. I grew angry and asked if he favored birth; also I wanted to hear whether or no he believed in killing weeds.

Progress! I know nothing of medicine and railways and stagecoaches and saving lives, but I do know about books. And I see by my bookcases that the nineteenth century did not write so well nor in things beautiful think so well as did the eighteenth, with the promise all about me that the present century will write worse and think more heavily than either. We have better guns, clocks, plows, sewing machines, but they wrote better English and thought nobler thoughts.—Alfred Henry Lewis in Cosmopolitan.

Omen of the Wedding Ring.

At the close of a recent divorce case a woman spectator remarked:

"I knew they wouldn't pull together very long. The excuse made by her wedding ring proved that. When she had been married six months I saw her take her ring off one day. The mark it had left was so faint you could hardly see it. You can always gauge the length of a marriage by the impression made by the wedding ring. In some cases the ring, even though entirely too large, sinks away into the finger. Such a mark as that indicates a marriage as lasting as eternity. Other women may wear a ring as tight as the skin, yet it will leave scarcely a streak on the flesh. In that case look out for an early termination of the contract."

The other women present said nothing, but all improved the first opportunity to slip their rings around and inspect the telltale mark. The faces of some wore an expression of satisfaction, others of disappointment, but nobody knew the reason therefor.—New York Press.

Right In His Line.

Irate Father—I'm getting tired of this nonsense. You've been engaged to that young man for six months. Does he ever intend to marry you? Daughter—You must have patience, papa. Remember, he's an actor. Irate Father—What has that to do with it? Daughter—He's fond of long engagements.

Ballard Snow Liniment Co.
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Sold and Recommended by
W. M. JOHNSON, Gainesville.

Warned by Their Perfume.

According to the results of experiments by Dr. Jean Carion, aromatic plants charged with essential oils which exhale a perfume that spreads like an atmosphere about them when touched by the rays of the sun are to a slight degree warmed by the presence of this agreeable atmosphere. It acts in retaining the solar heat like the glass covers of a hothouse, although of course far less effectively. Professor Spring has shown that the relatively high temperatures of large cities is probably due, at least in part, to the carbonic anhydride in the air above them acting as a retaining screen for heat rays.

Wise Counsel From the South.

"I want to give some valuable advice to those who suffer with lame back and kidney trouble," says J. R. Blankenship, of Beck, Tenn. "I have proved to an absolute certainty that Electric Bitters will positively cure this distressing condition. The first bottle gave me great relief and after taking a few more bottles I was completely cured—so completely that it becomes a pleasure to recommend this great remedy." Sold under guarantee at all drug stores. Price 50c.

Spots on Leather.

Oxalic acid in weak solutions is the best thing to use when removing spots from leather. Two or three crystals of oxalic dissolved in warm water, then applied with a bit of cloth to the spots, will do the work. Watch closely, and when the spots begin to disappear apply clear water to overcome the acid, which is a powerful bleach. Dry the leather with a clean cloth. For bright leather make the solution weaker.—Philadelphia North American.

Anybody who has used Ballard's Snow Liniment is a living proof of what it does. Buy a trial bottle. 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by W. M. Johnson.

certainly smashed a hole in the barrooms of Kansas, but Ballard's Horehound Syrup has smashed all records as a cure for coughs, bronchitis, influenza and all pulmonary diseases. T. C. H—, Horton, Kansas, writes: "I have never found a medicine that would cure a cough so quickly as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it for years." Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Will Against Will.

A certain prosy professor of physics is so great a misanthrope that he deliberately announces his lectures for the days when he has reason to think that his students will least want to attend. He commanded their presence on an election day once and drove them nearly wild by delivering a tedious essay on will power.

"If he wills it, a man may accomplish anything" he droned. "Let him make up his mind not to die, and he will live in spite of disease; let him decide that life is not worth living, and he will drop peacefully out of it. I challenge any student to cite an instance in which the power of the will has not triumphed over everything."

Up shot the reprobate of the class, a youth beloved by all his companions for his daring humor.

"Sir, I accept your challenge. You are wrong," he said.

"Pray mention an example," retorted the professor dryly.

"With pleasure, sir. An hour ago I willed that this lecture should be brought to a speedy conclusion. I've willed the same thing sixty times since, but up to now it hasn't come off."

"Nor will it," said the professor, "for I have not only willed that this lecture should last another hour, but am perfectly willing that it should do so." And it did.

A Miss and a Find.

It was the habit of the Rev. James Spurgeon, grandfather of the great preacher of that name, to pray each evening under a certain oak tree in a secluded wood in Honeywood park. One night he dreamed, the story goes, that Satan appeared and threatened to tear him in pieces if he followed his accustomed route to the tree. There was another path by which he might go in safety. Remembering his dream, Spurgeon felt sorely tempted the next night to take the route in which Satan was not. But this would be to capitulate. Trembling in every limb, he made his way by the path in which the danger lay. He reached his goal in safety and in prayer and song returned thanks for delivery from peril. When his prayer had ended he rose to return. In his path lay a piece of solid gold "as large as a curtain ring." All inquiry failing to discover an owner, he retained it and when he married had his wife's wedding ring made from his curious find.

Cured of Lung Trouble.

"It is now eleven years since I had a narrow escape from consumption," writes C. O. Floyd, a leading business man of Kershaw, S. C. "I had run down in weight to 135 pounds, and coughing was constant, both by day and by night. Finally I began taking Dr King's New Discovery, and continued this for about six months, when my cough and lung trouble were entirely gone and I was restored to my normal weight, 170 pounds." Thousands of persons are healed every year. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

A Desperate Wager.

Driven to desperation by their heavy losses, gamblers have often sought by some coup either to repair their shattered fortunes or to bring down utter ruin upon themselves. One of the most curious instances of this kind comes from England. In the eighteenth century a notorious gambler had been losing steadily in a game for high stakes with Lord Lorne. Exasperated by his continued ill fortune, he suddenly sprang up from the card table, seized a large and costly punch bowl and, balancing it above his head, called out to his opponent:

"For once I'll have a bet where I have an equal chance of winning! Odd or even, for 15,000 guineas!"

"Odd!" replied the peer placidly, and the gambler hurled the magnificent bowl against the wall.

When they counted the pieces Lord Lorne had won.—Tuesday Magazine.

How to Avoid Pneumonia.

We have never heard of a single instance of a cold resulting in pneumonia or other lung trouble when Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It not only stops the cough, but heals and strengthens the lungs. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. Dr. C. J. Bishop of Agnew, Mich., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia with good results in every case." J. W. McCollum & Co.

OLD CASE SETTLED.

The Newberry Proceedings in Bankruptcy Are Now at An End.

The Jacksonville Times-Union of Sunday has the following to say, which will be of interest to people of this section, since the defendant is well known here:

"The case of Thomas E. Owens, as trustee of the estate of J. C. Newberry, bankrupt, which has been vigorously contested in the United States district court for more than two years, has finally reached a termination.

"The exceptions of the defendant to the master's report were overruled, and said report is confirmed; a certain mortgage to secure payment of $2,000 is declared fraudulent and void, and it is ruled that the property involved is an asset of the estate, and the trustee is directed and empowered to sell said property.

"M. C. Jordan, Esq., represented the complainant, and Judge Horatio Davis of Gainesville, Fla., the defendant."

MEETING CONTINUES SUCCESS.

Twenty-One Accessions Were Made to Various Churches Monday Night.

The services at the First Methodist Church continue to prove of great interest, since many professions of conversion are being made every day.

It is said that on Monday evening there were twenty-one accessions to the various churches of the city, all of whom joined the church of their choice through the evangelist, Rev. J. B. Culpepper.

The Sun is glad to note these additions, and trusts that there will be more before the revival closes.

The Messrs. Culpepper expect to remain here until the end of the week, and ask those interested to attend their meetings, which have proved of deep interest to the people of Gainesville.

He is engaged in selling furniture, wagons, etc., and in connection is running a first-class restaurant, which himself and good wife have recently opened. He reports a fine business all round.
